GARDENS OF SCOTLAND

Celebrating 500 years of gardening history

Enjoy the best of Scotland

Ideal for groups and FITS on extended trips, short breaks and touring holidays, Gardens of Scotland showcases the best of Scotland's gardens.

Our conservation charity is the largest garden owner in Scotland, with 70 gardens nationally, including 35 major gardens and designed landscapes, 18 National Plant Collections, 100,000 recorded plants and 13,500 varieties. Our gardens range from late medieval reconstructions and Victorian formality to early 20th-century masterpieces and modern creations. Whether ornamental, kitchen, organic, period, rose, cut flower, sensory, vegetable or woodland, each garden is unique and a seasonally changing living work of art.

Start your journey from Glasgow or Edinburgh to discover:

GEILSTON GARDEN

Cardross G82 5HD

Garden of tranquillity

Escape to one of Scotland's most compelling and diverse gardens on the Firth of Clyde. Discover the walled garden, dating from 1797, with its giant Wellingtonia and impressive Mackenzie & Moncur heritage glasshouse, the kitchen garden and apple orchard, as well as the millpond, waterfall and Geils marriage well. During spring, stroll along the bluebell-lined paths beside the Geilston Burn and in summer be inspired by the prairie borders in full bloom.

Other attractions in the local area:

Non-NTS: Dumbarton Castle (HS)

THE HILL HOUSE

Helensburgh G84 9AJ

Inspired by Charles Rennie Mackintosh

The beautifully restored gardens mirror Charles Rennie Mackintosh's stunning architectural masterpiece, from the 'lollipop' hollies in the carriage circle to the design and colours of the rose garden – echoed in the interiors by the famous Mackintosh rose design. In spring the garden is richly scented with azaleas and narcissus. Don't miss the unusual 'plum pudding' rockery, period kitchen garden and wildflower orchard.

Other attractions in the local area:

Non-NTS: Argyll Forest Park (FCS); Loch Lomond & The Trossachs National Park

CRARAE GARDEN

Crarae, Inveraray PA32 8YA

Garden of 'champions'

Explore Britain's finest example of a Himalayan woodland garden with an international tree collection boasting 19 UK champions, 46 Scottish champions and 90 Argyll champions, as well as one of the UK's most extensive native fern collections. Magical all year round, with breathtaking views over Loch Fyne and renowned collections of rhododendrons, azaleas, camellias and magnolias.

Other attractions in the local area:

Non-NTS: Auchindrain; Inveraray Castle (HHA); Inveraray Jail; Kilmartin House Museum

ARDUAINE GARDEN

Arduaine, Oban PA34 4XQ

Insectivorous plants, palms and ferns

Benefiting from the warm North Atlantic Drift, this green oasis overlooking the Sound of Jura boasts many rare plants from around the world, in particular South America and East Asia, including Japan, Korea and Taiwan. Blue Tibetan poppies, Chatham Island forget-me-nots and giant Himalayan lilies are just part of the perennial collection. Insectivorous plants, palms and ferns add to a sense of the exotic, while the magnificent rhododendron collection attracts enthusiasts from far and wide. The Loch Melfort Hotel bistro offers a wide variety of locally sourced dishes. www.lochmelfort.co.uk

Prehistoric trees

Within easy reach of Inverness, Fort William and Skye, journey through some of the wildest and most breathtaking scenery in Scotland and escape to the UK's most northerly subtropical-style garden and palm tree paradise. Nurtured by the warm currents of the Gulf Stream, Inverewe is on the same latitude as Hudson Bay in Canada. This oasis of the north boasts 10,000 recorded plants from around the world, including China, Chile, the Himalayas and the Indian subcontinent. Discover the Wollemi pine, until recently thought to be extinct and with fewer than 100 specimens in the wild – the leaves on these beautiful 'fossil trees' are said to resemble the spines on the back of a Stegosaurus dinosaur.

Include a stop-off at Corrieshalloch Gorge National Nature Reserve, one of the natural wonders of the Highlands, with its dizzying 46m high views over the tumbling Falls of Measach.

HUGH MILLER'S BIRTHPLACE COTTAGE & MUSEUM
