THE ENDEAVOUR

A brief description

The Endeavour Penthouse Apartment has been in the planning for more than two years aiming to become Scotland's finest Castle Apartment. This 4,000 square feet (371 square metres) laterally converted apartment, sits high above the West Coast of Scotland overlooking the Firth of Clyde. The apartment has extraordinary views of the iconic Ailsa Craig island (pictured in the photograph opposite), the isle of Arran, the Mull of Kintyre and on a good day, Ireland. The Endeavour has been beautifully designed incorporating fine antiques and art from around the world together with an array of rich and colourful fabrics. The accommodation includes a sensitive combination of traditional Scottish baronial style and contemporary additions, with high-tech touches for the most discerning of international travellers.

The apartment includes four stunning bedrooms and four bathrooms, a beautiful TV snug with seating for twelve, and a separate library and games room. With panoramic views to the West, the lounge and dining room is able to seat sixteen guests with an adjacent period kitchen, with its own breakfast seating. The apartment has nautical themes throughout, referencing the Castle's maritime history and splendour and these speak of a bygone era throughout the entire floors. Towards the south of the apartment, there is also a sauna, treatment room and private lift. Finally, in the tower section of the Castle, sits a spiral stone staircase giving access to the very top of the Glenapp Castle Hotel with its historic turrets and crenelations.

The Endeavour will include full 24 hour butler service together with an exclusive private chef and has the option of total privacy and seclusion or engagement with the main hotel itself with all of its exquisite dining facilities and renowned service.

HISTORY AND SPLENDOUR

Glenapp Castle dating back to 1872 has been the home to merchants, aristocrats and philanthropists for almost 150 years. Built by the renowned architect, James Bryce in the Scottish baronial style, Glenapp sits in a totally secluded woodland setting adjacent to the spectacular Kilphin Glen and with commanding sea views of the Firth of Clyde.

A journey

This period kitchen will accommodate a peaceful breakfast for eight. The kitchen is equipped to the highest professional specifications to facilitate the finest of dining or the simplest of fare. Upon request, the kitchen is also able to be used as a small cookery school for its guests.

TV SNUG, LIBRARY AND GAMES ROOM

The impressive TV room with a high specification 65 inch screen will comfortably accommodate 12 guests and the screen itself is hidden behind a gilt mirror. Next door, the Library and Games room is the perfect place to leave behind gadgets, phones and dig deep into your favourite book or to play chess or bridge with a “wee dram” late into the night.

THE TOWER - BATHROOM

VIEWS FROM ABOVE AND APARTMENT CONFIGURATION

With high powered binoculars on hand and stillness all around, you will delight at the 300 degree panorama. By day observe an ever changing seascape, islands, passing ships and far reaching woodlands below. Glenapp sits alongside the dark skies national park and on a clear night you will marvel at the brilliance of the starry host above.

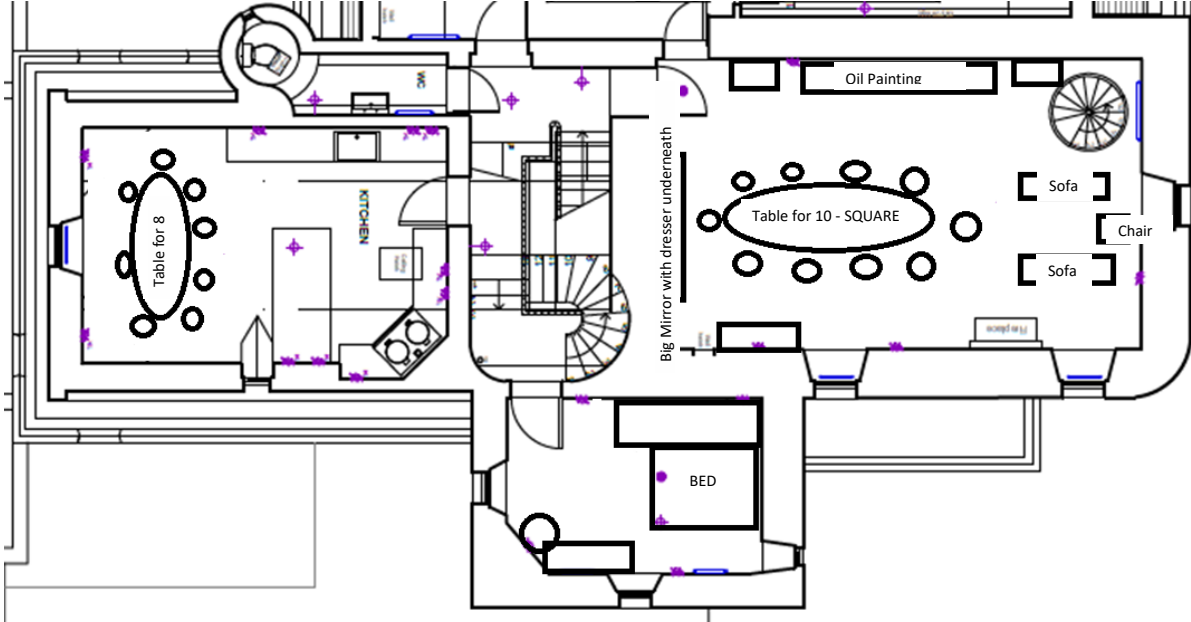

The apartment itself is available in a two and four bedroom configuration. The two bedroom configuration includes the kitchen and dining room, TV snug, library and games room. This two bedroom configuration also represents 80% of the total floor space providing a vast living area of more than 3,000 square feet (278 square metres).
